Re: Case #2013-00332

Dear Mr. Derouen:

As homeowners in the Old Bridge Subdivision in Danville, KY, and propane customers of AmeriGas, we wish to express our opposition to the proposed discontinuance of our present gas service and the proposal to place individual tanks on our properties. For one thing, our property is not big enough for a tank without it being an eyesore to our neighbors. Our biggest fear, however, is that, should the tank be buried (which is currently against our deed restrictions) over time moisture in the ground will cause the tank to rust and expose us to the possibility of a rupture in the tank and an explosion. We also can't imagine that the burial of multiple propane tanks in our subdivision is not without many environmental hazards! The offer from Amerigas to bury our tanks free of charge and to keep our price for propane set for the next year are "red herrings" to cloud the real issue. Surely, the Public Service Commission (note the words "public" and "service") will not allow Amerigas to exempt itself from the oversight of the Public Service Commission solely so that they will no longer be a controlled monopoly and therefore be able to raise their prices whenever and however they please. This is surely a disservice to the public.

Very truly yours,

James M. Jacobs and Anita W. Jacobs
